Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 10 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Warm, with sunshine and showers. Showers locally heavy and prolonged.

Today:
Areas of low cloud and fog are likely at first given light winds. Becoming brighter through the morning, but this should spark further scattered showers, with some heavy and locally prolonged with a risk of thunder. Rather warm and humid. Maximum temperature 23 deg C (73 deg F).

Tonight:
Remaining showers gradually dying away during the evening, leaving a mainly dry, mild, but rather cloudy night. Low cloud and patchy light rain remaining over the Pennines. Minimum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Saturday:
Rather cloudy at first, but otherwise a brighter day, with some sunny spells. Further showers developing later, but these fewer and lighter than of late. Remaining rather warm and humid. Maximum temperature 22 deg C (72 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
A rather uncertain period: probably on the cloudy side with a few showers to end the weekend. Perhaps drier Monday, ahead of a breezier Tuesday, with a risk of rain.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.